Tradition Is in Our School Song

Dear Howard School, the shrine of my devotion,

The school I love, the place where my heart is,

Your name for e'er I'll praise, revere and cherish

In times of joy, in sorrow and tears.

You are the source of all my inspiration,
My hope, my dreams for future years.

May I to thee be loyal, true, Beloved;
May thou in me live and be glorified.

I love thy walls, traditions, and thy spirit;
I promise thee, thou'll e'er be my pride. .

No matter what the gods of chance may will thee . . .

FOREWORD

Howard may be described as an institution built on traditions, but functioning with new ideas conducive to continuous growth brought about through the cooperative efforts of students, parents, teachers, and others in the community. Everything about the school is designed to depict an atmosphere portraying the richness of our past and the progress of our present and future.

Since 1883, Howard has always aimed for high scholarship, outstanding performances in extracurricular activities, and a wholesome living and learning environment for students and teachers.

The greatness of Howard has been shown all over the world through the achievements of its graduates, and the present and future glory lies in the accomplishments of the students today.

It is these traditions that have made Howard into the school we know, and the continuous flow of students and ideas today will make her a better institution of learning tomorrow.

dedication

Miss Mary Ella Carter

Miss Mary Ella Carter has been and is the motivating spirit in the personal and educational growth of hundreds of boys and girls. She is dedicated to the teaching profession and all it entails and is concerned for the welfare of those who have become a part of her life whether educationally or personally.

This veteran service, motivating spirit, devotion, unending fidelity and concern resulted in her being chosen by her colleagues to receive the "Teacher of the Year" award for 1965.

It is because of these qualities and dedication to her profession that we, the Class of 1966, respectfully dedicate to her this year-book.

philosophy is part of howard's tradition

We believe that the educational efforts of Howard School should be directed toward the development of each pupil, according to his abilities, capacities, and interests, so as to work for maximum growth in knowledge, understandings, skills, habits, attitudes and appreciations that will enable him to live effectively in a changing democratic society.

Traditionally, the philosophy of Howard has intended to serve the interests and maturity of those students who will seek training in colleges and other institutions of higher learning, as well as serve the needs and interests of those whose formal education will terminate after high school.

Vocational education attempts to provide courses that will broaden its curriculum and thereby serve the needs of those who choose a vocational trade or industrial course.

The shop projects that follow provide an opportunity for students to learn the basic manipulative skills and related knowledges as practiced by workers employed in the same type of occupation.

Athletics

A sound athletic program is a valued part of the Howard tradition. A good athletic program strengthens the body, quickens the mind, and nurtures confidence, self-respect, and a healthy attitude towards the rights and privileges of others.

ATHLETICS

Winning Teams Are Part

George W. James

football coach & athletic director

Realizing that athletics is an integral part of the total education process and overall growth and development of the individual, our Head Coach and Athletic Director--through dedication and hard work --has made athletics at Howard a vital part of the Howard tradition.

That he is a keen, hard, clean competitor; an inspirational leader, and a student of the field of athletics has been exemplified in the success of our athletic teams that have won many District, Regional and State Championships.

who are Interstate Life policyowners?

Probably more than you think because people rarely talk about their insurance coverage . . . until they need it.

Throughout the southeast over a million people are protected through our Company and more than two thousand Interstate Life representatives work day in and day out to render them the best possible service for the lowest possible cost. Chattanooga is the hub of this operation, for our Home Office is located here.

We are proud to call Chattanooga home, partly because of her exceptionally fine educational system, which is training young people to pick up the reins of leadership of tomorrow . . . one of the most outstanding examples of the American free enterprise system is the life insurance industry of which Interstate Life plays an important role.

Dear Lela

Always remember me to all of your best friends.

Hope that you will always keep your friendly personality and you will go far.

Always,
Blondell
